DEFENDS THE SCHOOL COURSE

Principals' Association Takes up Matter of Criticism of High School Course and Defends Present Course of Study.

A vigorous defense of the High School course of study as it exists in Adams County schools was made by Prof. L. Dale Crankleton, superintendent of the Littlestown schools, at the annual mid-winter meeting of the County Principals' Association held on Saturday in the new High School building.

In answer to the argument that there is little practical taught in the public schools Prof. Crankleton endeavored to show that it is a mistake to measure everything by its value in dollars and cents, that educational values cannot be so measured. The material from which the present high school course is constructed is selected for several reasons.

The Utilitarian Value—that which can be directly used in the earning of a livelihood. In this class all sciences including agriculture, and all arts must be placed.

The Related or Supplementary Value.
The modern languages as supplementary to the English. Latin to fix firmly the principles of grammar and rhetoric—the drill to establish habits Latin teaches relationships and proportion by bringing into a united whole details that are separated.

The Conventional Value. Each community makes its demands—for instance—reading, writing and spelling are demanded by all.

The Inspirational Value. Material is selected that will give certain ideals. History and literature give ideals of good citizenship and right living.

The Disciplinary Value. Higher algebra and geometry develop reasoning power and accuracy, strengthening the principles that have been already learned in mathematics. Art has this value, disciplining the mind along many lines Latin and Greek have this additional value.

The Socializing Value. Material
here enables the learner to see beyond his community history, classics, all good literature give training that will enable people to live better and be happier.

The Moral Value. The high school course keeps the boy in school during the critical period of his life when his morals are being formed. He comes in contact with positive moral force.

The speaker further made evident that the wisdom of the system is to be found in its effect. A boy in passing through high school will discover himself, will be led into right lines
of work, increase his living capacity, see more beauty in nature, will not fall into dull routine. A high school graduate once as an experiment found that he could occupy twenty two different positions. In this state forty occupations are closed to all except high school graduates. James M. Dodge, who has carefully studied conditions in Massachusetts and New Jersey says that a boy entering some mechanical enterprise at fourteen is earning all he will ever get at twenty. A high school graduate will overtake him in a year or two and pass him to the extent of $10 or more per week.

Dr. Warren of New York gives the following data. In a town ship in New York state where there are 580 farmers 388 who have no high school training have an average earning capacity of $322 per year; 165 who are high school graduates have a capacity of $628; 10 who are college graduates earn $848.

Other arguments defending the present course were advanced by Harry McClure, Mr. Bucher, Prof. H. Milton Roth and Mr. Reynolds.

"Rhetoricals, or Oral Expression in Advanced Grades" was ably discussed by Miss Adams and Mr. Knouse. Other teachers also took part. "The Parent Problem" was also given considerable time and the matter of the Parent Teachers' Association was referred to.
Prof. W. A. Burgoon submitted a paper on the question which concluded with the following:

Many of our citizens have been made to think and plan for the good of the schools who would otherwise have left it all to the directors and teachers. When we get the people to think we will likely have their cooperation.

Other topics of interest to the schools were taken up and the meeting adjourned. A large proportion of the members were present and the discussions brought forth much interest and enthusiasm.

TEACHERS' MEETING

Following is the report of the fourth educational meeting of the teachers of Cumberland township, held at Willow Grove school, Friday evening, January 19, Miss Mabel Bollinger, teacher.
The teachers present were, Miss Edith Mickley, Miss Mary Rudisill, Miss Blanche Stoops, Miss Irene Fleck, Mrs.
Mattie Howard, Miss Mabel Bollinger
and Miss Beulah V. Keckler; also

Schwartz. A very interesting program was rendered. The following topics were discussed: "Patriotism of Our Flag," Miss Edith Mickley; "Sanitary Conditions of the School Room," Miss Beulah V. Keckler; "Are Educational Meetings Justifiable," Mrs.
Mattie Howard. After singing "America," the meeting adjourned to meet at Granite school Feb. 23.

CROPS NOT BADLY INURED

"I don't think the extremely cold weather from which we suffered did much damage to trees and none at all to wheat that I can hear of," said A.
L. Martin, Deputy Secretary of Agriculture and chief of the division of crop reports of the state. Mr. Martin, who spent several days at the agricultural exhibition in Pittsburgh has been in correspondence with farmers in almost every county lately.

"The cold snap came up without much snow and with no rain and the damage done was comparatively slight," said he. "Had there been rain followed by the cold waves I think great harm would have been done to peach trees. As it is, I think the loss will be small and the apple trees do not show evidence of being harmed at all."

WEEK TO BE FAIR

There is nothing at the present time to indicate that a general cold wave will cross the country this week. The bulletin issued by the Weather Bureau says temperatures will average near or above the normal throughout the country. "Generally fair weather," the bulletin continues, "will prevail east of the Rocky Mountains, except that a short period of rains and snows will attend a disturbance that will appear in the Far West Tuesday or Wednesday, cross the Middle West about Thursday and the Atlantic States Friday or Saturday.

COUNTY FARMS' LARGE INCREASE

Adams County Farms Increased
More than Four Million Dollars in Value in Decade Covered by Last Census.

Farming land in Adams County has increased in value more than four million dollars in the decade of 1900-1910 according to statistics just issued by the Census Bureau. In 1900 the value of the land was given as $12,716, 539 while in 1910 it was $16,963,163.

The county is credited with 3752
farms as against 3536 ten years ago, an increase of more than 400 farms in the decade. In part accounted for by the division of larger farms and also by the clearing of timberland not formerly cultivated. There are 3752 farmers in the county of which all but 16 are native born white. Fourteen are foreign born white and there are but two negro farmers in the county.

Only nine farms in the county have less than three acres while there are only three farms with more than 500 acres each. Almost half of the Adams County farms contain anywhere from 50 to 174 acres. The average number of acres to a farm is 75 and 83 per cent of all the land in the county is devoted to farms.

Land in Adams County in 1900 was estimated at being worth $21.75 per acre while in 1910 it was $26.60.

Numerous statistics are given regarding the number of animals in the county. When the census was taken there were 214,77 cattle worth over three quarters of a million dollars.
There were 9778 horses valued at more than a million dollars. Mules numbered 2775 and their value was $391,292.
Ten burros and asses were reported worth $1392. More than 22,000 hogs were rated as being worth $165,608
and more than 7,000 sheep at $84,619.
There were 92 goats and they were declared to be worth $394.

All kinds of poultry in the county numbered 389,134 and their value was more than $200,000. There were over two thousand colonies of bees with an average value of about $2.00 each.

About two thirds of all the farms owned in the county are operated by their owners. There is a small increase in this respect over 1900. Of the farms in the county about three fifths are free from mortgage.

The census bulletin gives a vast number of figures regarding the acreage for various crops, the amount of grain and other products raised in each county and a great deal of other information of interest to the people of the county. The bulletin is on file in this office where it may be consulted.

MANY AT FUNERAL

The attendance at the funeral of Engineer George Reed from his late residence, Hanover, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, was so great that the casket had to be opened on the sidewalk for the purpose of giving an opportunity to all his friends to view the body. The railroad, who was killed in the accident on the Western Maryland last Thursday afternoon, had a host of friends among secret societies and railroad employees, and these in hundreds gathered to do him honor Sunday. When the services in the house were ended there were nearly 500 persons on the outside of the residence who had been unable to view the body. The casket was brought to the sidewalk and opened and the people forming two lines marched by.

MUST GET AUTO TAGS FOR 1912

State Highway Commissioner Edward M. Bigelow has issued a warning to all owners of automobiles who have not registered for 1912 that they must secure the new license tags for their cars or stand the consequences.
Speaking of the matter, he said:
"The law requires that the new license tags be displayed on and after the first of the year and we have allowed a reasonable period for people to procure these evidences of registration, but although almost three weeks have elapsed, I still see that many people are operating cars with the yellow 1911 tags. The law makes each neglect punishable and folks who fail to display the proper tags may be arrested and fined."

The department has issued over 18,000 registrations to owners of cars to date.

TAKEN OFF MASTS OF SUNKEN SHIP

Four Men Finally Rescued by Life Savers.

THEY SANG HYMNS OF JOY

The Sailors Clung to the Rigging in High Sea and Freezing Weather For Thirty-six Hours.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 22.—Their hands numb with cold and swollen by the leathlike grip they had on the masts, four members of the crew of the three-masted schooner Harry Prescott, stranded near Hatteras, were rescued from death by life savers from Creeds Hill and Cape Hatteras stations and the crew of the revenue cutter Itasca, which came from Wilmington, N. C.

The men clung to the rigging of the schooner for thirty-five hours, but, despite their weakened condition, they slid down the masts of the sunken ship and dropped into the lifeboats under them with remarkable alacrity.

The life savers made fifteen attempts to save the men, but failed each time. On several occasions they were almost as near to death as the four men who clung to the rigging above them to their heads and cried to them to try again to save them.

Completely exhausted, three of the life savers fell over in their boats, but were revived again and fought the high seas and tide and wind, and stood by the imperiled men.

All day and all night the life savers did their best to rescue the men. When the Itasca reached the scene life savers were lowered and, with the assistance of the life savers, several more attempts were made. They failed, and the Itasca kept the rays of her searchlight on the rigging of the sunken ship until daylight.

With a light sea and little wind, the life boats were able to get under the masts of the sunken schooner, and when the men were told to come down they released the ropes tied around their waists, slid down the masts and dropped into the waiting life boats.

When they saw they were going to be saved all of them began to sing hymns, and when they reached the life boats they embraced the men from the stations on shore and the cutter who for so many hours had tried to save their lives.

The four men, together with Captain V. R. Philbrook, Mate T. S. Said and Steward George O. Robbins, who were rescued, were taken on board the Itasca and carried to Wilmington, N. C. The schooner will prove a total wreck.

It was 9 o'clock on Thursday night that the Prescott, bound for Wilmington, N. C., with a cargo of salt, struck on the Inner Diamond Shoals when her master mistook the Hatteras light for the Diamond Shoals lightship. It was a battle for life from the start with the seven members of the crew of the schooner, and the Prescott's cabins soon filling with water, her men were without food and drink from midnight Thursday until their rescue, save for what little they were able to carry on their persons when it was found that the schooner was doomed and nothing remained but to take to the rigging.

After resting for awhile on the jib boom of their vessel they were compelled at nightfall to take to the rigging again, and there lashed themselves for a night that proved to be one of great suffering in the face of a severe northwest wind that carried the temperature below freezing.

Captain Philbrook is in a very bad physical condition as the result of the severe suffering he encountered.

STOVE POLISH FIRES BABY

Little Life May Pay For Use of Explosive Material.

Bethlehem, Pa., Jan. 22.—While Mrs. Alfred H. Kern, of this place, was polishing the kitchen stove with a rag it caught fire.

Hurling the blazing cloth to one side, without looking, it landed on Mrs. Kern's two-year-old daughter. In an instant the child's clothing was ablaze, and gathering her up in her arms, the mother made a dash for a snow pile outside.

Harry Strauss grabbed the child and pulled off the flaming clothes; but it is thought by doctors that her burns will prove fatal. Both Strauss and Mrs. Kern were badly burned.

Arrest Three For $1800 Jewel Robbery
 York, Pa., Jan. 22.—Charged with robbing the jewelry store of Cohen & Co. or articles valued at $1800, three young men were arrested by Chief of Detectives White. The prisoners are Roy Graybill, Samuel Stackhouse and "Nick" Willey. It is said they have confessed. The robbery was the most daring committed in York in recent years. The thieves entered the store, which is located in the central part of the city and lighted all night, by prying apart the iron bars covering a window.

DUCHESS OF CONNAUGHT.

She is the Wife of the New Governor General of Canada.

CONNAUGHTS ARRIVE IN NEW YORK

Members of Royal Family Guests of Whitelaw Reid.

New York, Jan. 22.—The Duke of Connaught, uncle of King George, and governor general of Canada, with the duchess, their daughter, the Princess Patricia, and a small suite, arrived in a special car at the Grand Central station this morning for a four days visit to Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid.

Except for the dinners that have been planned and for which arrangements had to be made ahead of time, nothing has been planned to occupy the time of the royal party. The visit is not a parade, it was explained; it is simply a personal visit, and there is nothing official or semi-official about it.

In the party, besides the duke, the duchess and the Princess Patricia, are Lieutenant Colonel Lowther, military secretary to the duke; Captain Beaupre, controller of the Rideau Hall household, the duke's Ottawa residence, and Miss Pelly, a lady in waiting.

The royal party are as free today as they desire until the dinner tonight at the Whitelaw Reids. There will be music after dinner, but no general company is planned. Cardinal Fahey will be at the dinner, and so will Bishop and Mrs. David H. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Lincoln and Major General and Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant.

BLAMED FOR SIX DEATHS

Coal Mine Officials Held Responsible For Explosion.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 22.—Officials of the Parrish Coal company were blamed for the death of six men in the Parrish colliery on Jan. 9 by a coroner's jury.

The chief witness was Anthony Lukawicz, the sole survivor of seven men who were sent into a dangerous gangway. Swathed in bandages, he told how he and his six fellow workmen were sent into the gangway with naked lamps and how the gas exploded.

The coroner's jury held that the colliery officials were responsible for the deaths because they had not first sent in a fire boss to examine the working

HAS PEACE PLAN FOR DEMOCRATS

Guthrie Proposes That State Factions Unite.

APPEARS IN COURT TODAY

State Chairman Wants Agreement on Number of Delegates and All Factions Abide by Action of Convention.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 22.—George W. Guthrie has returned from the east and sent word to William J. Brennen, counsel for Walter Ritter, that he will appear in court today to defend his title as chairman of the Democratic state committee, which right Ritter has attacked.

Mr. Guthrie is anxious to have the question at issue disposed of at once so that Pennsylvania Democrats will know just where they stand, and he has a peace proposal. He will insist that the courts have no jurisdiction and move to quash the proceedings.

"It looks to me," said Mr. Guthrie, "as though they waited until this late day to start a suit with a view to preventing me from certifying to the secretary of the commonwealth and the commissioners of the several counties the list of officers to be voted for at the April primaries, particularly delegates to the state convention. While failure to make such certifications would not prejudice the rights of the people, it would put them to considerable inconvenience.

"If an agreement could be reached as to the number of delegates the matter of certification would make little difference, as it would then be up to the people regarding who they would send to the convention. The party rules outline specifically how the apportionment of delegates shall be made, and we have followed it in making our roll, which calls for a convention of 181 delegates.

"I am going to fight to a finish for a fair and honest convention. I have proposed to Mr. Ritter that we join in issuing a call which would insure that one convention, the roll to be made up under joint supervision and only those who hold certificates of election from their county committee to be seated. They would agree on a man to call the convention to order, and after that the delegates should run matters and all sides agree to abide by the acts of the body.

"There is nothing in this that is not fair and honorable, and I cannot understand why Mr. Ritter and his associates refuse to accept it. It would bring harmony and the decisions arrived at would be those of Democratic voters and not those of any so-called leaders."

Democratic Records Taken to Pittsburg
 Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 22.—Officials of the rival Democratic state committee removed important books and records from their respective headquarters in this city and took them to Pittsburg. The records are wanted in the argument today in the test case to restrain George W. Guthrie from exercising the functions of chairman of the Democratic state committee.

SUGAR BILL READY

Democrats to Reduce Tariff to $1 Per 100 Pounds on Raw Product.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The terms of the sugar tariff revision bill that is to be reported to the house by the Democratic committee on ways and means practically have been agreed upon.

The measure will be taken up after the passage of the bill proposing a revision of the iron, steel and chemical schedules.

If the present plans are carried out, the sugar revision bill will impose a duty of $1 a hundred pounds on the raw product, instead of $1.68, as at present.

The reduction will be greater than appears on the surface. Under the reciprocal trade agreement with Cuba sugar imports from the island are admitted at a rate 20 per cent lower than that imposed on the product coming from other countries. As most of the raw sugar brought to this country comes from Cuba, the Democratic rate of $1 really means a cut to 80 cents.

$350,000 FOR INDIAN HOME

Carnegie Offers Building For Headquarters For American Redmen.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Andrew Carnegie has found a new outlet for his generosity.

It was learned in Washington that he has offered to contribute $350,000 for the construction in Washington of a home to be used as the headquarters of the Federation of North American Indians, recently organized in a convention held in Washington, at which prominent Indians from several tribes were present.

A prominent architect, it was said, would be in Washington this week to look over the ground and consider the site and the style to be used in the new building.

The national capitol already has three buildings financed by Mr. Carnegie—the Pan-American building, the Carnegie Institution of Washington and the Carnegie Public Library. To the Pan-American building he gave $750,000, the Latin American republics contributing $250,000.

TAFT TO NAME HOOK

President to Ignore Charges Against Kansas Jurist.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Among the friends of President Taft it was understood that the nomination of United States Circuit Judge Hook, of Kansas, to the supreme court of the United States, succeeding the late Justice Harlan, would be sent to the senate during the week.

Objections to Judge Hook, referred to Attorney General Wickersham, it was said, had not proved convincing to the president.

OIL TRUST MUST PAY FINE OF $2,800,000

Says Government is Powerless to Interfere.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 22.—Contrary to current rumors that the government would accept a compromise settlement from the Standard Oil company, recently found guilty of accepting concessions on shipments from Olean to Burlington, Vt., the company must appear in court and accept fines which amount to $2,800,000, according to John Lord O'Brien, the United States district attorney.

"The matter stands as it did before the conference in Washington last Friday of Attorney General Wickersham, former Judge Kenefick and myself," said O'Brien. "After the motion for a new trial has been disposed of I shall move for sentence. The government cannot interfere at this time, the matter being in Judge Hazel's hands entirely."

Provided a motion for a new trial is set aside and a heavy fine imposed, it is said that Judge Kenefick will appeal to the supreme court.

"Not guilty" will be the plea entered before Judge Hazel in the United States district court for the six companies forming the so-called "coaster brake" trust indicted by the federal grand jury for conspiracy and restraint of the coaster brake trade, according to Lyman M. Bass, attorney for the defendants.

Arrangements for continuance of the trial of the defendants, amounting to $1000 in each case, will be made at this time.

He had been locked in the car last Tuesday at Peru, Ind., by practical jokers. When the patrolman who found him tried to feed him a roll Fry endeavored to swallow it whole, and it was only with the combined effort of four men that he could be held long enough to allow nourishment to be given him. He was taken to the City hospital, and the physi has there hold little hope for his recovery.

Gettysburg People Receiving the Full Benefit.

There have been many cases like the following in Gettysburg. Everyone relates the experience of people we know. These plain, straightforward statements will do much toward relieving the suffering of thousands. Such testimony will be read with interest by many people.

Mrs. H. H. Ridinger, 25 Breckenridge St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I can endorse Doan's Kidney Pills just as highly today as I did two years ago, when I publicly told of their merits. A member of my family was afflicted with backache and at night often had to get up and sit in a chair. The kidneys were weak and there were severe pains throughout the body. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally procured at the People's Drug Store and they brought relief from the first. As their use was continued, a great improvement was noticeable. I was led to try Doan's Kidney Pills by this person's experience and I am glad to say that I received relief from Doan's Kidney Pills more praise than they deserve."

CHAPTER XVII.

Letty Lane Sings.

The house of the Duchess of Breakwater in Park Lane was white, with green blinds and green balconies; beautiful, distinguished and old, mellow with traditions, and the tide of fashion poured its stream into the music-room to listen to the Sunday concert. Without, the day was bland and beautiful, mild spring in the deep sweet air, and already the bloom lay over the park and along the turf. Piccadilly was ablaze with flowers, and in the windows and in the flower-women's baskets they were so sweet as to make the heart ache and to make the senses thrill. Keen to the spring beauty, the last guest to go into the drawing-room of the Duchess of Breakwater was the young American man in whom the magic of the season had stirred the blood. He seemed the youngest and the brightest guest to cross the sill of the great house whose debts he was going to pay, and whose future he was going to secure with American money.

Close after him a motor car rolled up to the curb, and under the awning Letty Lane passed quickly, as though thistledown, blown into the distinguished house. The actress was taken possession of by several people and shown up-stairs.

Dan spoke to his hostess, who wore, over her azure dress, a necklace given her by Dan. She said he was "too late for words," and why hadn't he come before. After greeting him she set him free, and he went eagerly to find his place next to an elderly woman whom he liked immensely, Lady Calworn. She had given him twenty pounds for some of his poor. Lady Calworn had a calm, kind face, and Dan sat down beside her, well out of the crush, and they talked amiably throughout the violin solo.

"Think of it," she said, "Letty Lane of the Gaiety is going to sing. I'd sit through a great deal for that. Let that man with the fiddle do his worst."

Blair laughed appreciatively. He thought Lady Calworn would be a good friend for Miss Lane, better than the duchess herself. "I wish Lily could hear you talk about her violinist," he said, delighted; "she thinks he's the whole show." And tentatively, his ingenuous eyes fixed on his friend, he asked: "I wonder how you would like to meet Miss Lane. She's perfectly ripping, and she's from my state."

"Meet her!" Lady Calworn exclaimed, but before she could finish, through the room ran the little anticipatory rustle that comes before the great, and which, when they have gone, breaks into applause. The great actress had appeared to give her number. Dan and Lady Calworn, behind the palms in the little corner of their own, watched her.

A clever understanding of the world into which she was to come this day, had made the girl dress like a charm. She stood quietly by the piano, her hands folded. Among the high ladies of the English world in their splendid frocks, their jewels and feathers, she was a simple figure, her dress snow white, high to her throat, unadorned by any gay color, according to the fashion of the time. It was such a dress as Romney might have painted, and under her arms and from across her breast there fell a soft coral-colored sash. The costume was daring in its simplicity. She might have been Emma, Lady Hamilton, because perfectly beautiful, perfectly talented, she could risk severe simplicity, having in herself the fire and the art and the seduction. Her hair was a golden crown and her eyes like stars. She was excited, and the scarlet had run along her cheeks like wine spilled over ivory.

She looked around the room, failed to see Blair, but saw the Duchess of Breakwater in the velvet and her jewels. Letty Lane began to sing. Dan and she had chosen Mandolay, such a rendering of the old ballad as had not been heard in London, and coming, as it did, from the lips of a popular singer whose character and whose voice were not supposed to be sympathetic to a piece of music of this kind, the effect was startling. Letty Lane's face grew pale with the touching old tragedy, the scarlet faded from her cheeks, her eyes grew dark and moist, she might indeed herself have been the lady looking from the castle wall while they carried the body of her dead lover under those beautiful eyes.

Dan felt his heart grow cold. If she had awakened him when he was a little boy, she thrilled him now; he could have wept. Lady Calworn did wipe tears away. When the last note of the accompaniment had ended, Dan's friend at his side said: "How utterly ravishing! What a beautiful, lovely creature; how charming and how frail!" He scarcely answered. He was making his way to Letty Lane, and he was young her hand, murmuring, "Oh, you're great; you're great!" And the pleasure on his face repaid her over and over again. "Come, I want you to meet the Duchess of Breakwater, and some other friends of mine."

As he let her little cold hand fall and turned about, the room as by magic had cleared. The prime minister had arrived late and was in the other room. The refreshments were also being served. There was no one to meet Letty Lane, except for several young men who came up eagerly and asked to be presented, Gordon Galorey among them.

"Where's Lily?" Dan asked him; "I want her to meet Miss Lane."

"In the conservatory with the prime minister," and Galorey looked meaningly at Dan, as much as to say, "Now don't be an utter fool."

But Letty Lane herself saved the situation. She shook hands with the utmost cordiality and sweetness with the men who had been presented to her, and asked Dan to take her to her motor. He waited for her at the door and she came down wrapped around as usual in her filmy scarf.

"Are you better?" he asked eagerly. "You look awfully stunning, and I don't think I can ever thank you enough."

She assured him that she was "all right," and that she had a "lovely new role to learn and that it was coming on next month." He helped her in and she seemed to fill the motor like a basket of fresh white flowers. Again he repeated, as he held the door open:

"I can't thank you enough; you were a great success."

She smiled wickedly, and couldn't resist: "Especially with the women."

Dan's face flushed; he was already deeply hurt for her, and her words showed him that the insult had gone home.

"Where are you going now?" "Right to the Savoy."

Without another word, hatless as he was, he got into the motor and closed the door.

"I'm going to take you home," he informed her quietly, "and there's no use in looking at me like that either! When I'm set on a thing I get it!"

They rolled away in the bland sunset, passed the park, down Piccadilly, where the flowers in the streets were so sweet that they made the heart ache, and the air through the window was so sweet that it made the senses swim!

CHAPTER XVIII.

A Woman's Way.

When the duchess thought of looking for Blair later in the afternoon he was not to be found. Galorey told her finally he had gone off in the motor with Letty Lane, bareheaded. The duchess was bidding good-by to the last guest; she motioned Galorey to wait and he did so, and they found themselves alone in the room where the flowers, still fresh, offered their silent company; the druggists strewn with leaves of smilax, the open piano with its scattered music, the dark rose-wood that had served for a rest for Letty Lane's white hand. Galorey and the duchess turned their backs on the music-room, and went into a small conservatory looking out over the park.

"I think you'll have to let Dan go, Lily!"

"He's nothing but a cowboy," the lady exclaimed. "He must be quite mad, going off bareheaded through London with an actress."

"He's spoiled," Lord Galorey said peacefully.

She carried a bunch of orchids Dan had given her, and regarded them absently. "I've made him angry, and he's taking this way of exhibiting his spleen."

Galorey said cheerfully: "Oh, Dan's got lots of spirit."

Looking up from the contemplation of her flowers to her friend, the duchess murmured with a charming smile: "I don't hit it off very well with Americans, Gordon."

His color rising, Galorey returned: "I think you'll have to let Dan go, Lily!"

For a second she thought so herself, and they both started when the voice of the young man himself was heard in the next room.

"Good-by, I'll let you make your peace, Lily," and Gordon passed Dan in the drawing-room in leaving, and thought the boy's face was a study.

The duchess held out her hand to Dan as he came across the room.

"Come here," she called agreeably. "Every one has gone, thank heaven! I've been waiting for you for an age. Let's talk it all over."

"Just what I've come back to do."

anything but the honest truth, that Dan didn't know deceit when he saw it, and his lady spoke so naturally that he thought for a moment her rudeness had been unintentional. Perhaps she hadn't really meant—Everybody in her set was rude, great and rude, but she could be deliciously gracious, and was so now.

"Don't you think it went off well?"

Dan said that it had been ripping and no mistake.

"I like Lady Calworn; she's bully, and I liked the king. He spoke to me as if he had known me for a year."

She began to be a little more at her ease.

"I didn't care much for the fiddling, but Letty Lane made up for all the rest," said Dan. "Wasn't she great?"

"Rather!" The duchess' tone was so warm that he asked frankly: "Well, why didn't you speak to her, Lily?"

And the directness caught her unprepared. The insult to the actress by which she had planned to teach him a lesson failed to give her the bravado she found she needed to meet Dan's question. Her part of the transaction, deliberate, unkind, seemed worse and more serious through his headlong act, when he had driven off, braving her, in the motor of an actress. She didn't dare to be jealous.

"Wasn't it too dreadful?" she murmured. "Do you think she noticed it too awfully? I was just about to go up and speak to her when the prime minister—"

Dan interrupted the duchess. He blushed for her.

"Never mind, Lily." His tone had in it something of benevolence. "If you really didn't mean to be mean—"

She was enchanted by her easy victory. "It was admirable."

"Yes," he accepted, "it was just that! I was mortified. You wouldn't treat a beggar so. But she's got too much sense to care."

Eager to do the duchess justice, even though he was little by little being emancipated, he was all the more determined to be fair to her.

"It was too sweet of her not to mind. I dare say her cheek helped to soothe her feelings," the woman said.

"You don't know her," he replied quietly. "She wouldn't touch a cent."

The duchess exclaimed in horror: "Then she did mind!"

And he turned slowly: "She's eaten and drunk with kings, and if the king hadn't gone so early you can bet he would have set the fashion differently. Let's drop the question. She sent you back your check, and I guess you're quits."

With a sharp note in her voice she said: "I hope it won't be in the papers that you drove bareheaded back to the hotel with her. Don't forget that we are dining with the Galoreys, and it's past seven."

After Dan had left her, the duchess glanced over the dismantled room which the servants were already restoring to order. She was not at ease and not at peace, but there was something else besides her tiff with Dan that absorbed her, and that was Galorey. She couldn't quite shake him off. He was beginning to be imperious in his demands on her; and in spite of her cupidity and her debts, in spite of the precarious position in which she found herself with Dan, she could not break with Galorey yet. She went upstairs humming under her breath the ballad Letty Lane had sung in the music room:

"And long may his lady look from the castle wall."

PLAN TO CORNER POULTRY MARKET

Big New York Dealers Buying Up Dressed Fowls.

SALES THE HEAVIEST KNOWN

Independent Dealers Declare the Price to the Consumer Will Go Higher Than Ever Before.

New York, Jan. 22.—An article appearing under a Chicago date line in the Saturday issue of the New York Produce News was taken in some circles of the produce trade to indicate that a concerted effort is being made by New York members of the National Butter, Eggs and Poultry association to gain control of the entire 1912 output of poultry in the country in order to force the price of poultry higher than it has ever been before.

According to the Chicago dispatch, the entire season's "crop," to use a trade word, with the exception of a few small blocks still in the hands of speculators, has been bought up by a group of a half dozen New York dealers, and the price of dressed fowls will go beyond 30 cents a pound as the result of their activities.

Quite a number of eastern buyers and packers have been in Chicago for the past ten days," says the dispatch, "buying and trying to buy dressed poultry. Sales are said to have been the heaviest ever known in the trade. The buyers are especially anxious to get fowls, and are said to have paid 14 to 17 cents, in some cases higher. On account of the short crops in the west and Texas, shipments in the fall and this winter have been the heaviest known, and much of the crop has come to Chicago."

The dispatch names as the most prominent purchasers of the Chicago storage poultry in the effort to get control of the season's crop the following New York members of the National Butter, Eggs and Poultry association: Henry Dawie, president of the association, and a member of the commission firm of Dewinter & Co.; George F. Heinrichs, of George Heinrichs & Co.; Robert W. Alexander, of Reed & Alexander; N. Durham, of Durham & Sons; Max Mayer and Nathan Schweitzer.

It is stated further that the New York firm of Dewinter & Co. had bought 250,000 pounds of Texas turkeys to hold in cold storage, and that in all 1,000,000 pounds of this bird are removed from the market by being held up in cold storage to await expected higher prices. The purchasers paid from 17 to 18 cents to the producers for the turkeys.

According to H. A. Emerson, of the International Auction company, a concern which operates auction rooms of fowls, butter and eggs and poultry, the news from Chicago indicates that the big buyers in poultry are going to set a corner on that product which will make fowls higher this year than they have ever been before, and this in spite of the fact that this year's crop is greater than any other.

Mr. Emerson said that if people wish to seek a cause for the high cost of living, in the line of chickens and turkeys at least, they have only to pay attention to the manipulation of the market now going on through the medium of the Chicago storage plants. The visible supply of dressed poultry will soon be altogether in the hands of the big dealers, said Mr. Emerson, to be held by them until the price soars beyond what has been the top price even of the last high priced season.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The navy department has drawn plans for a chain of wireless stations which will bring the department into aerial communication with all its ships wherever they may be, from the coast of west Africa to Chinese waters. Congress will be asked to appropriate $1,000,000 to establish this system, which will be superior to any of the kind now in existence in any part of the world.

MRS. BELMONT EDITRESS

Plans Paper For Women That Will Suppress No News Item.

New York, Jan. 22.—Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont is planning to start a daily newspaper to be managed by women and devoted entirely to their interests.

Mrs. Belmont declared that women did not have a fair representation in the news of the day, and she thought that the time was ripe for women to come to the front editorially.

Mrs. Belmont's plans have not yet taken definite shape, but she declared that she was serious in the matter. Her ideal, she said, would be "a paper which is not bound by any financial, political or social obligation to suppress one bit of news or to alter its tone."

ROOSEVELT SURE OF TWO DELEGATES

The First Illinois District Endorses Him.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Political leaders here expressed the belief that by action taken Saturday night, Theodore Roosevelt was assured of his first two delegates to the Chicago convention.

The move was made in the First Illinois congressional district, which in 1908 was the initial one in the state to take an open stand for the nomination of President Taft and which informally instructed delegates in his behalf despite the strong movement for Cannon.

Saturday night's action came at a meeting of the precinct captains of the district. By ballot, the meeting declared that the district's two delegates be instructed for Roosevelt.

Voting resulted as follows: For Roosevelt, 119; Taft, 2; LaFollette, 1; Foraker, 1.

At least 90 per cent of the committeemen, it is said, will be re-elected at the April primaries and will repeat Saturday night's action officially when they meet to choose congressional delegates who will designate the national convention delegates who undoubtedly will be instructed for Roosevelt.

GOOD IN KANSAS AND ELSEWHERE.

Let us resolve—
That we will get out of debt and stay out.
That we will farm our land better rather than farm more land.
That we will sow and plant only tested seeds of approved varieties.
That we will sow and harvest fewer weed seeds, the first easily possible by use of modern, inexpensive seed cleaners, the latter by better cultivation.
That we will raise better animals, with better care and better fare. As low class live stock discredits its owners, the scrub must have no place in good husbandry.
That by public or private work the roads and roadways along our farms shall be kept in serviceable and creditable condition.
That we will be as ready to provide our homekeepers indoors with modern conveniences and labor saving appliances as we are to have desirable outdoor equipment for ourselves.—F. D. Coburn is Kansas Farmer.

GRIP IS DREADED

Because it Lowers Vitality—What to Do

It is not the disease itself, but the dangerous complications that follow it, that people fear with such good reason: the lingering coughs, the terrible weakness, and the liability of being attacked by pleurisy, pneumonia or some other serious ill.

We say it is highly important to free the system of every trace of grip and nothing is so good for this as Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation which creates strength and builds up the body.

Mrs. C. L. Edwards, Long Branch, N. J., says: "Last February I had a very bad attack of grip and it left me with a terrible cough. For fully six weeks I coughed a great deal, and nothing had any effect on it, until I tried Vinol which soon gave me relief and has since brought about a complete cure."

Can anything be more convincing than Vinol is just what you need to build you up and make you strong? We guarantee it most positively. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.

The People's Drug Store Guarantees Rheuma For Rheumatism

What chance does any sufferer take when RHEUMA is guaranteed to banish rheumatism, lumbago, gout and kidney ailments, or money back?

Why not investigate this offer; talk to the People's Drug Store about it. RHEUMA surely does drive rheumatic poison from the system, brings swollen joints back to normal and relieves agony in two days.

People so crippled with rheumatism that they could not walk have been absolutely freed from the iron grasp of the demon, rheumatism, with less than half a dozen 50 cent bottles. A few hours after the first dose, RHEUMA begins to dissolve the uric acid and drive it from the body through the natural channels.

Everybody can afford RHEUMA—the price is only 50 cents a bottle, and the dose is small.

The First Gray Hair

Sign of Age.

Easy Way to Preserve Natural Color of the Hair and Make it Grow.

A harmless remedy, made from common garden sage, quickly restores gray hair to natural color. The care of the hair, to prevent it from losing its color and lustre, is just as important as care for teeth to keep them from discoloring. Why spend money for cosmetics and creams to improve the complexion, and yet neglect your hair, when gray hair is even more conspicuous and suggestive of age than wrinkles or a poor complexion? Of the two, it is easier to preserve the natural color and beauty of the hair than it is to have a good complexion.

All that is necessary is the occasional use of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of common garden Sage and Sulphur, combined with other valuable remedies for dry, harsh, faded hair, dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. After a few applications of this simple, harmless remedy, your hair will gradually be restored to its natural color, in a short time the dandruff will be removed, and your hair will no longer come out but will start to grow as Nature intended it should.

Don't neglect your hair, for it goes further than anything else to make or mar your good looks. You can buy this remedy at any drug store for fifty cents a bottle, and your druggist will give you money back if you are not satisfied after using a bottle for service. You will never regret it when you realize the difference it will make in your appearance. People's Drug Store, Special Agent, Gettysburg, Pa.
